Great, thanks for your information! Before we go ahead and add you to the membership list, there are a few important principles we'd like you to read. Think of them as things we hope you'll do as a member of Songforge...

Focus On Worship

Being a part of the Worship Foundry, all of the activity that makes up Songforge is centred on Christian worship music. All writers are welcome, but those who are not writing worship material may not find the group particularly helpful.

Attend Regularly

Don't worry, no one's going to come knocking on your door if you don't show up, but your attendance each month is valuable to yourself and the other writers. At the very least, let us know if you aren't coming to an evening so we can plan accordingly.

Write Regularly

It may seem obvious, but being a part of Songforge means that you commit to bringing something new each month that you are able to play/read, even if it is only half complete.

Respect others

Leave all notions of the TV series Idols or any other talent contest at the door. At Songforge we hold each other in high regard, and seek to treat everyone's efforts with respect, recognising that everyone is on a journey of developing their skills.

Receive Criticism

As a writer you need to really hear and seriously consider the perspectives of others, without allowing your pride or ego to rob you of what could be a helpful suggestion.
