

Change

From earliest times we've always felt that change is not for us,
I'm OK Jack, but THEY must change and do so without fuss.
In jest we say "Aisle Alter Hymn" but really it is true
It's not for ME upon my word; it's only meant for YOU.

There are some routine changes which we daily have to make,
Like changing socks and undies so we're clean for goodness sake.
We have to change the baby or the little thing will "pong",
I didn't mean swap boy for girl, so please don't get me wrong!

Metamorphosis is nature making changes we can see,
Moths lay eggs; worms hatch out and start an eating spree.
Spinning silk cocoons is next; pupate inside - then "hey"
Out crawl fluffy moths which mate and then more eggs must lay.

Opportunity and danger make the Chinese word for change,
It covers risk and progress and gives it a wider range.
Complacency; the status quo, mean "let's not rock the boat"
Change means vary, transform, shift - it's positive, take note!

Change has been the main idea in many hymns and songs -
A longing for a better way - a halt to all the wrongs.
Stagnation stops a river flowing freely from its source,
So let's be moving forward, with the Lord steering our course.
